“ Joseph, I have truly loved you for so long. You and our children were my world. I don't know how to do life without you, but I will do everything I know how to do and make it through somehow for our kids. It's been 2 weeks and I miss you so much, our love will always be so sacred and I truly will love you till I die. Then in heaven I will find you and again we'll be together. Love you babe and your name for me that you always called me beautiful girl. Always your wife.

“ I was saddened to hear today that my old boss, Joe, passed away. Before leaving my former position, I went out of my way to search him out in order to tell him what a terrific manager, and trainer he was. He truly had a gift as a teacher and he was so well regarded by everyone--and with good reason.

Aside from being a wonderful leader, he had a one of a kind sense of humor. The man certainly knew how to stir things up and make the mundane more fun. I am grateful that I had the opportunity to know him.

We always had a particular greeting. So, for one last time, I would like to write it out here.

Me: "Joe. Joe. What do you know?"

Joe: "Everything!"

...And now you truly do know everything.

Sending my prayers and well wishes to his family during this time.

“ Joe, as a manager, you were one of a kind. I will miss you revving your bike as we arrived at the same time in the morning. I will how you used to breathe like Darth Vader through your helmet at me. I will miss the petty bickering over what you called music and I called noise pollution. I will miss the way you simply called me 'F' because there was so many of us. I will your laughter and the giddy actions you displayed while showing pictures of your family.

Aww heck, I just plain miss you.

May your ancestors welcome you home with open arms. May your family be comforted knowing how much we all adored you.

Rest well my friend.

“ Joe was a pleasure to have at work! He constantly made the day light and funny, you just wanted to get the job done to make him smile. He's laughter and antics will be missed not only at work but in my heart. My deepest sympathies to his family who he so loved and talked about on a daily basis. My favorite memory of him was when we had a back to college event at work and we had to inflate a ton of ballons in the office.. We had so many we lost Joe in the ballons. I heard "I feel like I'm in the movie up" and I brought down a bouquet of ballons and up popped his head! We were all laughing so hard!
